

Short Poetry Collection 25	LibriVox  NO RIGHTS RESERVED <h2>Short Poetry Collection 25</h2> <ol style="list-style-type: none"><li>1. All for Love by George Gordon, Lord Byron, read by Kristin Hughes</li><li>2. All Things Are Current Found by Henry David Thoreau, read by Alan Davis-Drake</li><li>3. Bid adieu, adieu, adieu by James Joyce, read by Sean McKinley</li><li>4. Bright cap and streamers by James Joyce, read by Sean McKinley</li><li>5. The Cane-bottom'd Chair by William Makepeace Thackeray, read by Alan Chant</li><li>6. Fable by Ralph Waldo Emerson, read by Alan Davis-Drake</li><li>7. Fame is a Food That Dead Men Eat by Austin Dobson, read by Lee Ann Howlett</li><li>8. The Fisher's Boy by Henry David Thoreau, read by Alan Davis-Drake</li><li>9. I Died for Beauty by Emily Dickinson, read by Alan Davis-Drake</li><li>10. Main Street by Joyce Kilmer, read by Richard Gaudet</li><li>11. Men Say They Know Many Things by Henry David Thoreau, read by Alan Davis-Drake</li><li>12. The Night by Emily Bronte, read by Richard Gaudet</li><li>13. Parable of the Old Men and the Young by Wilfred Owen, read by Caroline Foty</li><li>14. The Problem by Ralph Waldo Emerson, read by Alan Davis-Drake</li><li>15. Quarrel by Elinor Wylie, read by Lee Ann Howlett</li><li>16. Roofs by Joyce Kilmer, read by Richard Gaudet</li><li>17. The Snow Storm by Ralph Waldo Emerson, read by Alan Davis-Drake</li><li>18. Sonnet to Sleep by John Keats, read by Alan Davis-Drake</li><li>19. The Tryst of the Night by Mary C. G. Byron, read by Kristin Hughes</li><li>20. What Soft Cerubic Creatures by Emily Dickinson, read by Alan Davis-Drake</li></ol>	Short Poetry Collection 25
----------------------------	---	----------------------------